Präambel

The Code of Conduct is a set of behavioural standards, which every Simplicity employee pledges to uphold. Even in our increasingly global and digitally networked world, the standards that we implement contribute to operating fairly and in an economically, socially and ecologically sustainable manner. The Code of Conduct drafted by Simplicity, with its fashion brands Opus and someday, is based on the Code of Conduct of the German textile and fashion industry.

1 Basic understanding and validity

Simplicity sees itself as part of the communities in which it does business and is committed to socially responsible corporate governance. By taking the direct and indirect effects of our business activities on society and the environment into account, it is our continuous endeavour to achieve an appropriate balance between economic, social and environmental interests.

Our practices are in line with generally recognised values and principles such as integrity and legal compliance and we particularly observe the internationally recognised human rights and labour standards as set out in the following Code of Conduct. We endorse the objectives and provisions of the Code of Conduct and will make every appropriate and reasonable effort within the scope of our respective legal and actual possibilities to fulfil the voluntary commitment on an ongoing basis at all our domestic and international company locations.

Furthermore, we expect our business partners to adhere to the provisions of this Code of Conduct and encourage them to demand the same from their contractual partners in the supply chain.

If existing national regulations contradict the provisions of this Code of Conduct or if the national context makes it impossible to comply with them in full, we will still strive to find a way to meet the requirements of the Code of Conduct to the fullest extent possible.

2 Human rights and labour standards

We respect human dignity and uphold internationally recognised human rights, as set out in particular in the United Nations (UN)<sup>1</sup> Universal Declaration of Human Rights and addressed in the UN Guiding Principles on Business and Human Rights<sup>2</sup> and the OECD Guidelines for Multinational Enterprises.<sup>3</sup> We also take into account the internationally recognised labour standards of the International Labour Organisation (ILO), as listed below in the Code of Conduct.

In all our business activities we always strive to neither cause nor contribute to human rights violations. We expect the same from our business partners. As far as necessary and possible, we support our supply partners in this.

2.1 Employment relationships

We appreciate our employees. We reject any form of unlawful punishment, abuse, harassment, intimidation or other undignified treatment towards workers.

We abide by the applicable labour law in all employment relationships and expect the same from our contractual partners. At the beginning of the employment relationship workers shall be provided with comprehensible information about the essential terms and conditions of employment, including their rights and duties, as well as the working hours, remuneration and payment arrangements and modalities. We respect and protect the right of employees to terminate their employment in accordance with the applicable notice period.

2.2 Prohibition of child labour and protection of young workers<sup>4</sup>

We do not tolerate child labour and observe the applicable legal minimum age for admission to employment. We do not employ persons under the age at which compulsory education ends under the law of the place of employment and under the age of 15. We expect our contractors to have adequate means of determining age to prevent child labour. If the use of child labour is identified, all necessary measures are immediately initiated focusing on the best interests, protection and development of the child. For people under the age of 18, the rights of young workers shall be observed; they may only be hired if it is ensured that the working and employment conditions do not pose a risk to their health, safety or morals, nor are they harmful to their development.

2.3 Prohibition of forced labour<sup>5</sup>

We reject all forms of forced or compulsory labour, including any form of bonded labour, serfdom, slavery or slave-like practices, trafficking in human beings or any other involuntary labour and services that are not in conformity with internationally recognised labour and social standards.

2.4 Remuneration<sup>6</sup>

We adhere to the statutory or – where applicable – collective agreement provisions for the remuneration of work performance. We ensure that the wage paid by us does not fall below the applicable statutory minimum wage or the applicable collectively agreed minimum wage set or customary in the sector. In countries or regions without a statutory or collective wage framework, we pay particular attention to the fact that the wages paid are sufficient for regular full-time work in order to meet the basic needs of the employees.

We do not tolerate deductions from wages that are not permitted by law, including deductions from wages as a disciplinary measure.

2.5 Working hours<sup>7</sup>

We adhere to the statutory or applicable collective agreement provisions on working time, including overtime, rest breaks and annual leave. In any event, we make sure that

- the regular weekly working time does not exceed 48 hours plus a maximum of 12 hours overtime per week,
- that the right to rest breaks is respected on each working day,
- that six consecutive working days are regularly followed by a day off
- and that public or religious holidays and holiday leave are respected.

Overtime shall be compensated or remunerated at least in accordance with statutory or collectively agreed regulations; it shall be ordered exceptionally and exclusively on a statutory, collectively agreed or contractual basis.

2.6 Freedom of association<sup>8</sup>

We respect the right of workers to freedom of association, freedom of assembly and the right to collective bargaining and wage negotiations, insofar as this is legally permissible and possible in the respective country of employment. If this is not permissible, we seek appropriate compromises for our employees.
